

Think You Know Student Debt?

- ◆ Forty-eight percent of the Class of 2017 graduated from a Washington baccalaureate degree-granting institution with no student loan debt.¹ Source: The Institute for College Access and Success.
- ◆ The average undergraduate student loan debt in Washington was $23,936. Source: The Institute for College Access and Success.
- ◆ Washington continues to rank among the top ten states for low-student debt. Source: The Institute for College Access and Success.
- ◆ Cumulatively the three-year student loan default rate for graduates from Washington's public four-year institutions is 4.7%; the national average is 11.5%. Source: Federal Student Aid; Office of the U.S. Department of Education.
- ◆ Nationally, federal loans for graduate students represent 63% of student aid compared to 32% for undergraduates. Source: The College Board, Trends in Student Aid 2017.
- ◆ The highest default rates, at 24%, are among borrowers who owe less than $5,000. Source: The College Board, Trends in Student Aid 2017.

The Ten States with the Lowest Average Student Loan Debt Levels

Utah	$18,838
New Mexico	$21,237
Nevada	$22,064
Wyoming	$22,254
California	$22,785
Washington	$23,936
Arizona	$23,967
Florida	$24,041
Hawaii	$25,125
Tennessee	$25,252

Percentage of Students with Financial Aid by MFI 2016-2017 Public 4-Year College & Universities (Full-Time, Full Year, Resident Undergraduates)

Washington Student Achievement Council. Annual Unit Record Report, 2016-17. [WA resident undergraduate need-based recipients, full-time, full-year].

What Can Washington Do Now?

- ◆ Continue reinvesting in higher education and providing stable and predictable funding. There is a historic relationship between state appropriations and tuition.
- ◆ Fully fund the State Need Grant program. 21,000 low- and middle-income students qualified but received no funding in 2016-2017.

¹. Washington baccalaureate degree-granting institutions include public and private non-profit four-year institutions and community and technical colleges that offer baccalaureate degrees.