Winter Term 2021 Quarter Institutions/Spring Term 2021 Semester Institutions

College/University	First Day of Term	Fall Term Course Modality	Last Day of the Term
Central Washington University	January 5	All instruction will be remote for the first two weeks of the winter quarter. For the rest of the winter quarter, faculty will choose the appropriate modality for their classes. The ratio of in-person and online courses will likely remain the same as in the fall quarter.	March 19
Eastern Washington University	January 4	Continue to deliver instruction primarily online for winter 2021 quarter – while in-person instruction will again be allowed for certain classes or labs if it is safe to do so. This includes semester courses as well, which will follow the same format utilized this fall.	March 15
	January 11*	Continue to deliver instruction primarily online for winter 2021 quarter – while in-person instruction will again be allowed for certain classes or labs if it is safe to do so. This includes semester courses as well, which will follow the same format utilized this fall.	May 7*
The Evergreen State College	January 4	Continue to deliver instruction primarily remotely with limited exceptions for in-person instruction.	March 20
University of Washington	January 4	Expect winter quarter to be similar to autumn quarter on all three campuses. This applies to the number of courses taught remotely.	March 12
Washington State University	January 19*	The method of delivering spring semester courses will be very similar to this fall. The majority of classes will be taught virtually. Those courses requiring an in-person component will be offered with the most up-to-date protocols to ensure the health and safety of our students, faculty, and staff.	May 7*
Western Washington University	January 4	Decided to move forward with a Winter Quarter with approximately the same levels of face-to-face instruction and campus residency levels as Fall Quarter.	March 19
